Howe Declines to Risk Aluminum Output Stoppage For Probe by Commission

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, June 16.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe told the House of Commons yesterday he would not risk stopping or delaying production of aluminum to hold an investigation into either an international or the reasonableness of the price paid for aluminum.

Crop Conditions Across Canada Still Backward

OTTAWA, June 16.—(CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said yesterday that crop conditions in Canada "generally remain backward"—so far behind in some sections of the Maritime Provinces that farmers will not be able to get their spring work done in time for harvest.

The general complaint in the prairies "continues to be the absence of sunshine and warmth," the bureau said. Summer weather there was "very poor."

"The rains have delayed field work and low temperatures are retarding growth," the report said in reference to Canada.

SEEDING RESULTS

In the prairie provinces some seeding of coarse grains remains to be done but wheat is mostly in and the bulk of it is showing above ground.

"Height of grain indicates very bad seedbed growth and whereas early wheat in Manitoba this year was 15 inches high, the best crop this year is about half that height," said Mr. Howe.

ONLY FIRM OPERATING

"This happens to be the only company that is making aluminum in this country. As one who must reach a decision, I would say we efforted to make the responsibility of taking the action of the executives of Aluminum Limited from their task of making aluminum. I would not want to place them in the witness box to tell about their pre-war experiences with international companies.

"Surely in Canada we have not yet reached the stage where a government need suffer from a lack of experience in its relations to international combinations with which it has some association and with which it has to deal," Mr. Graydon said.

"It may be entirely erroneous but my personal opinion is that while we are in this battle to get aluminum to make airplanes to win the war it would be wise to make plans to start another battle between the government of Canada and the sources of aluminum," Mr. Howe said.

NO REMEDY SUGGESTED

OTTAWA, June 16.—(CP)—No remedy leader said he admeted the way Mr. Caldwell presented his complaint about the aluminum interests but he added that no remedy was suggested.

If the C.L.P. proposed government ownership of such enterprises, it would involve a far bigger bureaucracy than the private industry and much more difficulty in placing key men in the right places.

Mr. Blackmore said he had been disappointed in the amount of information received by members of the Empire parliamentary association.

He was "suspicious in the highest degree" of addresses he heard suggesting steps to support the Beveridge plan for democracy. Members should have detailed information from the parliamentary association.

Mr. Blackmore said he wondered if there were "mutual agreement" to avoid many of discrepancies between the Beveridge and postwar newspapers. He was asked to pay attention to the utterances of house members with "malignant" intentions but had not noted these discrepancies.

CHARGES FAILURE

Mr. Blackmore said that with regard to the failure of the Canadian government to accept the Japanese convoy not far from Rabaul, New Britain, torpedoed and sunk, he had been depth-charged, shelled and destroyed in a severe counter-attack. The commanding officer of the Argonaut was Lt.-Commander John R. Pierce, 37.

The commanding officer and his entire ship's company have been given letters of commendation by Rear Admiral Charles A. Lockwood, commanding chief of naval operations, for a successful attack against an enemy destroyer or her last war patrol.

An Army reconnaissance plane reported the action in which the undersized craft, largest of her kind in the Pacific, had been captured a Japanese convoy not far from Rabaul, New Britain, torpedoed and sunk, she was depth-charged, shelled and destroyed in a severe counter-attack. The commanding officer of the Argonaut was Lt.-Commander John R. Pierce, 37.

Mr. Williamson said:

"The rains have delayed field work and low temperatures are re-tarding growth," the report said in reference to Canada.

City Flier One of First Over Oberhausen on Raid

BY ALLEN NICKLESON, TORONTO STAR-TELEGRAM
Scores of Canadians flying with the R.A.F. participated in Monday night's smashing attack on Oberhausen, and said they encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire in the Ruhr industrial city.

But they said they were concentrated blasting with blockbusters and incendiaries that started great fires. Returning airmen said the fire was intense and they had previously encountered and some said it was the heaviest they had experienced.

Every Person's Duty

If Edmonton streets are to be made safe, or even tolerably safe, it will take more than laws and police vigilance to establish that obvious condition.

The personal responsibility of the private citizen to take care of himself, and to not endanger the lives of others, will have to become a common governing factor of street conduct if danger is to be brought to the practicalities of life.

There is a fan-faring city, the main central business section is relatively small, while the lay-out of the city causes an abnormal amount of the traffic passing from one residential area to another, to pass through the downtown streets. This tends to congest traffic, and increases the liability to accidents, in the central area. In this area there should be no such thing as jay-walking orjay-beating, whether or not there happens to be a policeman on duty. It is the public known both offences are committed daily.

The days of only casual observance of traffic rules have gone. If we are to check the epidemic of accidents and keep the horrible list of fatalities from growing, strict enforcement of the regulations must do much to accomplish this. But there will have to be also the exercise of common sense on the part of those who walk and those who drive if Edmonton is not to become notorious as a place where human life is counted cheap.

Now on the Defensive

In 48 hours Britain-based bombers rained 5,250 tons of assorted bombs on German targets scattered from Kiel and Berlin to the Alpine peaks in Italy points in the Ruhr valley, the greatest tonnage yet delivered on Nazi war centres.

In the Mediterranean, bombers from Africa and Malta blasted five airfields in Sicily and won a two-day account of 158 enemy aircraft downed.

Moscow announced that during last week 550 Nazi planes had been shot down by Red airmen or smashed in airfield raids, bringing the six week total to the amazing figure of 3,600. The record of quarter of a million Russian planes.

Coast Cities

Since it depends upon the sea, and because the country is very narrow, her great cities are all near the coast. The coast is the only route to the interior.

Sicily is 90 miles from the nearest point of Tunisia, about 40 miles from the nearest point of Libya, and it is thus within easy flying range for bombers from all three bases, and for fighters from Malta and Tunisia. Most of the important war centres are on the coast, and the chief port of naval bases is Palermo.

Sicily was not chosen for which Goering had to plan. He planned it to smash the way to victory, not to hold off attacks on the Reich. He had to reverse the policy and set the factories to turning out fighters instead of long range bomb-carriers. There is only one explanation for that.

Sicily Next

The island of Sicily is 90 miles from the nearest point of Tunisia, about 40 miles from the nearest point of Libya, and it is thus within easy flying range for bombers from all three bases, and for fighters from Malta and Tunisia. Most of the important war centres are on the coast, and the chief port of naval bases is Palermo.

Sicily is being held as a defence than Pantelleria. Being larger, there is more room for fortifications, and strong garrisons. It is not dependent upon imported water, as the smaller island is. It lies within 120 miles of the toe of the Italian boot, and across the narrowest strait it will be almost impossible to prevent reinforcements and supplies being smuggled under cover of night. The country is mountainous offering hiding places for concealed batteries, barracks, parapets, and gun emplacements.

If the island were joined to Italy by solid land the advantages from a defence stand-point would be little greater than they are.

That the enemy will make the most of all their advantages is to be supposed.

To yield Sicily to the Allies easily would be almost equivalent to allowing them to make a lightly-opposed landing in southern Italy. Unless Hitler has decided to abandon Mussolini as a liability, he will have to pour men, planes and guns into Italy—unless he has the command of the heating of his planes for a third drive for the Caucasus oil fields.

Canadians everywhere will share in sentiment the cordiality of this welcome extended to Madam Chiang Kai-shek at the nation's capital. She is a remarkably talented and highly cultured woman, developing a public reputation in her own right. She has come to bring the people of this hemisphere with the new China, in the shaping of which she has played a very effective part. That the world, in particular, is a people who look to Chiang as king is the source of authority and direction are so closely akin to those of the western world in no small measure due to the influence of the capable and enlightened woman whom Canada honors itself in honoring.

For years now the Japanese demanded, as one condition of halting their march through northern China, that Chiang Kai-shek be delivered over to them. Tokyo evidently realized long ago that its predators would be unable to withstand the persistent resistance if he remained at liberty. But how strong and persistent that resistance would be it can hardly have foreseen. At the end of six years of continuous war, and ten years of military intervention, the Chinese are still in the saddle, with the aid of the United States.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

This War Novels To End With "Got Divorce"

Too Many Recent Marriages Based Only on Home-Sickness, Boredom, Restlessness or Beer; They Can't and Won't Last

Apparently when the novelties write the romance of the present will it not end in a mid-life crisis? The old stories used to end with "and so they were married and lived happily ever afterwards," but now they seem to end with "and so they got a divorce." Furthermore, this plot will not be concerned with the effects of a war, girl, who has been separated from her home, and the love she has for her country, but with the knots they tied with their tongues. And probably the title of the current best seller will be "They Can't and Won't Last."

At any rate, I am led to this conclusion by the many letters that come to me from both boys and girls who tell me that they have married on the spur of the moment, and that they have already lost their love for each other. They are hands and are planning to get married because it is romantic, it is the fashion, it is the other young people are doing it.

RUSH FOR DIVORCE

No doubt these youngsters are quite right in prophesying that after the war there will be a great demand for the reading and breaking of marriage vows, and the landscape will be decked up with broken hearts, ruined marriages.

It is hardly too much to say that when Johnny comes marching home again he will be decked up with broken hearts, ruined marriages, and all the sad wastes of the forces North and South. He will be too busy to think over his impulsive marriage, and wonder why he was foolish enough to do it.

For so many war marriages have been entered into without real affection. They were built on nothing more than the desire of both parties to be near, or bored, or a fit of the blues, or too many bottles of beer, or the desire to get married and all the dear familiar life he is accustomed to that makes him a boy marry a girl he has never even thought he was in love with, except as he is starting into the army.

RUSH WEDDING

It is not a deathless passion, but being hungry, or bored, and having that downcasted feeling that we will gather into a bunch pinned on the head—and it's a Hat! Black gloves were treated to a ruck of the yelling. A black dress, a black hat, a black coat, the throat as a dog collar?" This "hat" brought $500.00 for the entertainment of our service men. So when you have more of this veiled nonsense!

Women Won't Talk

By RENE RYERSON MART

THE STORY: Goblin, a goblin, was found murdered on the grounds of Kraltaower. The police received a tip that Kraltaower had been killed by someone he knew. Martha Kraltaower, who was the grandmother of the victim, had never heard of Goblin, but says nothing about the killing. Her son, Weller, and his granddaughter, Kathy, Connie, and her mother, Ruthie's mother, have been acting strangely.

CHAPTER VIII

SLEEP chases a variety of goblins; by morning everything and everyone at Kraltaower seemed normal again.

Then Weller called. He was in the station.

John drove me to the station in the big car. Weller was impatiently striding up and down. He scarcely greeted me.

"What the devil did you mean yesterday not telling me anything, and the morning papers full of it?"

"Get in the car, I'll tell you."

On the way back to Kraltaower I told him all that had happened as far as I knew—or nearly all. I told him that Derek Grady had been killed because he had come to their house, and that the coroner had fixed the time of death between 12 and 1 A.M. I told him that he said that his wife had been absent from the dining room for five unaccounted minutes before that hour, or that he had only Kathy to own up for that she was in her room at the time of the killing.

I didn't tell him either that I was afraid it was too pat for a mere coincidence that Derek had turned up at Kraltaower the same day Kathy came home.

"You know what this means, Mother. Will he be a pincer for the newspaper? I have a copy of a morning paper out for me to see. There was Derek's picture and his name in the headlines."

The newspaper account gave Derek's address as that of his true root in the path. It turned my ankle and I cried out with pain and caught at a low hanging tree branch. I held on to the branch until I could get my feet under me again. I tried to feel how badly my ankle was hurt. Gingerly I tried my toes. I could still walk. When I looked again, I saw that the light was gone. That gave me a queer feeling.

But before I had time to think about it I heard something coming down until dinner. I heard the sound of voices.

I saw then that Connie had gone glamor girl. She had knotted a gold scarf, sequins over her shoulders and arms.

Weller didn't say anything serious until we reached the dessert and he knew where I had locked the door at the Thing was upon me.

tree root in the path. It turned my ankle and I cried out with pain and caught at a low hanging tree branch. I held on to the branch until I could get my feet under me again. I tried to feel how badly my ankle was hurt. Gingerly I tried my toes. I could still walk. When I looked again, I saw that the light was gone. That gave me a queer feeling.

But before I had time to think about it I heard something coming down until dinner. I heard the sound of voices.

I saw then that Connie had gone glamor girl. She had knotted a gold scarf, sequins over her shoulders and arms.

Weller didn't say anything serious until we reached the dessert and he knew where I had locked the door at the Thing was upon me.

Connie went all to pieces when she saw Weller. She cried all over his shoulder, and he took her upstairs to bed. Weller had gone to bed with his shirt off, but he was still awake. He lay beside her, holding her hand. She lay beside him, holding his hand. They lay there frozen with panic the Thing was upon me.

Gallant Greeks Ask Your Help To Battle Foe

Red Cross authorities estimate that 1,500,000 Greeks have died from starvation or have been persecuted and starved to death by malnutrition since the German occupation. This is the price Greeks are paying for the "crimes" of the Nazis, their enemies against the Axis invaders.

For us today, the occupying forces are Greeks, the Greeks who swoop down from their mountain hideouts to harry troops, sweep supply lines and disrupt lines of communication.

The Canadian Greek War Relief Fund has been set up to raise $100,000 to alleviate suffering among these gallant people. The quota for Edmonton and District is $30,000. With the help of the Red Cross, the Red Cross will purchase supplies of food, clothing, medicines and other articles required by the Greeks to Greece. There they will be distributed by the International Red Cross Commission to those Greeks falling into enemy hands.

Donations may be sent to J. G. Nickerson, manager of the Edmonton office of the Canadian Branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, Prentiss Building, Suite 100, 841-851 United Farm Women of Alberta, 1025 10th Street, Edmonton.

Coalspur Highway Will Be Improved

The Coalspur highway, from Birkdale to Coopersburg, is to be graded this year, the provincial government announced Wednesday by Hon. W. A. Fellow, minister of public works. Birkdale is about eight miles west of Edmonton, and the total distance to be graded will be more than 20 miles.

With the grading plan will be completed or not depends on the availability of men and equipment. Mr. Fellow said the work must be taken immediately to organize a crew for the job, he added.

Will Speak Here

The Rev. N. B. Centis, who will speak with the Rev. A. B. Maclin, on Thursday, June 17, at 8 p.m., in the Masonic Temple, concerning the world-wide condition of Jews.

Jewish Speakers Here on Thursday

Two prominent Christian Jews, the Rev. A. B. Maclin and the Rev. H. B. Centis, will speak in the Masonic Temple at 8 p.m. Thursday, concerning the world-wide organization of the Jews and of the efforts of their organization to renew them with the Christian message.

Mr. Maclin was born in Kiev, Russia, of Jewish parents, but early in life became the leading member of the nihilist movement which sought to do away with the regime of the Czar. After being captured and condemned to death, he escaped and went to the United States where he was converted to Christianity and became a leader of the Russian Orthodox Church in America.

After graduating from the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, he accepted a call to the ministry and later was ordained a minister.

Rev. A. B. Centis, also the son of Jewish parents, was born in Russia, but went to the United States in 1913 where he sought out the Russian Orthodox Church and under the ministry of the late Dr. Leopold Cohn was converted to believe in Christian principles.

For nearly 20 years he has been a very popular speaker in Christian pulpits.

He was ordained to the Christian ministry by the Presbytery of New York and during a number of years was connected with the work of that denomination.
